DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments, see page 22, first paragraph, filed 23 January 2006, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 1 and 32 under 103(a) have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of US Patent No. 6,549,067 to Kenington.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

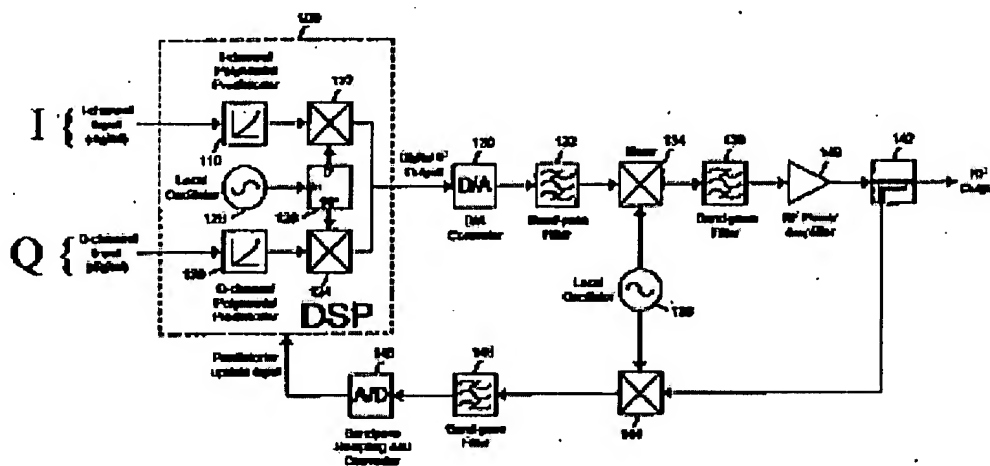

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1, 2, 5-8, 10, 14, 15, 18, 25, 26, 28, 32 and 33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US Patent No. 6,549,067 to Kenington.

4. Regarding claims 1, 5, 7-2, 8, 26, 28, 32 and 33, Kenington discloses a method and apparatus for linearizing an output signal. Kenington discloses a system comprising a DSP (100), which takes in in-phase and quadrature channels and separately, digitally predistorts (110 and 120; also see column 3, lines 1-8 and column 2, lines 6-18) them and then up-converts them to IF (122, 124, 126, 128). The IF signal is the sent through a DAC (130; also see column 3, lines 8-11) and up-converted to RF before amplification (132, 134, 136, 138 also see column 3, lines 11-23) by the power amplifier (140; also see column 3, lines 14-21 and 24-36). The pre-distorters are adapted using feedback supplied to the DSP (100) from the output of the amplifier from a splitter (142). The feedback signal is down-converted (136, 144, 146, 148; also see column 3, lines 29-36) and sent through an ADC (148) before being coupled to the DSP (100) to update the predistorter (see column 3, lines 24-36). The system could also be modified to use a pilot signal, subject to cross modulation from the input signal during the up-conversion and the amplification process, which is created within the DSP (100) and added prior to up-conversion to IF (see column 6, line 61- column 7, line 8).

5. Regarding claim 2, 6-2, 10-2, 14, 15, 18 and 25, Kenington discloses digital pre-distorters (110 and 120) provides the input signal to a splitter where it is distributed to various components to generate various orders of distortion where the gain (212) and phase (214) are adjusted before the signal is supplied to a combiner (216). The basic predistortion scheme can be adjusted using an adaptive filter (610). The adjusted signals are recombined with the input signal after being delayed (218) and then input to a mixer (See figure 2 and corresponding text; figure 6 and corresponding text; column 6, line 61- column 7, line 8; and column 3, line 57- column 4, line 3).

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 3-4, 9, 11-13, 16, 17, 19-24, 27, 29-31 and 34-36 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
